DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Restriction is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 and 372.

This application contains the following inventions or groups of inventions which are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

In accordance with 37 CFR 1.499, applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single invention to which the claims must be restricted.

Group I, claim(s) 41-47 and 52-54, drawn to a method of detecting a non-positive (+) stranded RNA virus in a sample.

Group II, claim(s) 55 and 68, drawn to a method of inhibiting human Coronavirus 229E replication with protease inhibitors E64D and Captisol.

The inventions listed as Groups I and II do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, they lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons: The claims are directed to methods of identifying non-positive (+) stranded RNA viruses in samples and a method of inhibiting the replication of human Coronavirus 229E, a (+) stranded RNA virus, with the protease inhibitors E64D and Captisol. However, group I specifically excludes detecting (+) stranded RNA viruses whereas group II is restricted to a specific strain of (+) stranded RNA viruses, so no shared technical feature exists for groups I-II and unity of invention is lacking. Note that PCT Rule 13 does not provide for multiple products or methods within a single application.

Election of Species

This application contains claims directed to more than one species of the generic invention. These species are deemed to lack unity of invention because they are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

The species are as follows:

If applicants elect group I, a specific species must also be elected from each group listed below.

A. A specific virus as stated in claim 42.

1. If applicants elect influenza virus, a specific subspecies must also be elected from the subgroup stated of claim 43.

2. If applicants elect parainfluenza virus, a specific subspecies must also be elected from the subgroup of claim 44.

3. If applicants elect adenovirus, a specific subspecies must also be elected from the subgroup of claim 45.

B. A specific virus as stated in claims 46 and 47.

C. A specific protease inhibitor as stated in claim 54.

Applicants are required, in reply to this action, to elect a single species to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. The reply must also identify the claims readable on the elected species, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered non-responsive unless accompanied by an election.

Art Unit: 1648

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

The claims are deemed to correspond to the species listed above in the following manner:

A. Claims 42-47 require a specific virus, all other claims are generic.

B. Claim 54 requires a specific protease inhibitor, all other claims are generic.

The following claim(s) are generic: all claims are generic.

The species listed above do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, the species lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons: Each recite virus, and protease inhibitor are distinct and require different searches based on these differences. For example, “not a + stranded RNA virus” as recited in claim 41, is not a single recognized genomic type of viruses and the protease inhibitors of Actinonin, Glycyrrhizin and E64D are different inhibitors with different chemical compositions.

Summary

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
